A winning collaboration

In the field of interactive technology, 6Freedom stands out as an expert with remarkable specialization in immersive applications in AR, VR, and MR. Additionally, they excel in simulators and mobile solutions integrating interactive avatars and artificial intelligence (AI). Under the leadership of its co-founders, Olivier HEIM and Morgan KLEIN, the company has quickly established itself in the software publishing market by offering a user-centric approach focused on designing "used and usable" software. With a growing team of 15 experts, 6Freedom supports its clients from software ideation to implementation, as well as user training, enabling them to use software independently. To meet the essential technical and logistical needs for its expansion, 6Freedom turned to Matts Digital, benefiting from responsive service and advice to provide hardware solutions tailored to their innovative projects.

With its solid experience in the field of interactive technology, 6Freedom has built a reputation as a trusted partner for creating innovative immersive experiences.

The company is committed to providing high-quality, user-centric solutions. 6Freedom has developed its own Software Development Kit (SDK), a tool for developers that can increase their productivity on a project by 2 to 5 times.

6Freedom is an agile company that needed a responsive logistics partner. Matts Digital proved to be that trusted partner by helping the company tackle its technical and logistical challenges. This partnership also enabled 6Freedom to focus on its core business and dedicate even more time to supporting its clients including training.

Additionally, Matts Digital's quick response time allows 6Freedom to uphold its commitment to its clients and meet their needs, even on an international scale.

A concrete example of the success of this collaboration is the response to a 6Freedom client's urgent need for a VR headset for business presentations. Thanks to its permanent stock, Matts Digital was able to send the rental headset within half a day, meeting the client's need promptly. Olivier Heim attests, "We know we can count on you."

Thanks to this collaboration, 6Freedom can benefit from technical advice to choose the equipment that best meets the specific needs of its clients. Matts Digital also allows them to test different solutions in advance through equipment loans.

The collaboration between Matts Digital and 6Freedom represents a beneficial strategic alliance for the publisher's clients. By combining Matts Digital's industrial capacity with its expertise, 6Freedom can precisely address its clients' diverse needs with fast delivery and without geographic restrictions.

This trust-based relationship makes Matts Digital the logical choice for 6Freedom whenever they need a quick and reliable solution.

"What I particularly appreciate about Matts Digital is their reliability. In case of urgency, they are very responsive with quotes within half a day, and they are always there to advise us. We can quickly deliver to our developers as well as our clients throughout France and even beyond. For a fully remote company like ours, this is crucial. They are a real trusted third party to support the quality of service for our clients."
